THE 5th PARIS CONFERENCE IS ORGANIZED BY THE FEIA HAS HELD AT THE OECD IN HYBRID FORMAT

The 5th edition of the Paris Conference, chaired the year by Thais PINTO, is organized by the International Economic Forum of the Americas (FEIA), and took place from November 30 to December 1, 2021 at the OECD Conference Center. This year, it brought together nearly 90 A-List speakers around the theme "A world in transition" with a particular focus on current topics such as digital, the transition to sustainability and the development of talents.-----

The FEIA, International Economic Forum of the Americas was created in 1995 in Montreal by academics and business leaders, and brings together more than 10,000 participants and more than 600 speakers at four annual conferences: Montreal, Toronto, Miami and Paris. Its mission is to promote understanding of the major international economic issues in relation to the Americas, in order to engage in their free discussions both in their reality and in their political and socio-cultural perspectives. Each year, the FEIA invites heads of state and government, personalities from the business world such as experts, union leaders, academics and members of civil society, to discuss, meet and bring out new solutions.

An international benchmark, the Paris Conference is an unmissable economic event bringing together the most senior leaders from the public and private, institutional and academic sectors from around the world. Its hybrid "phygital" format will promote exchanges and collaborations in order to bring out new lines of thought and action.
